Methodists Dedicate Service Plaque Here

A service plaque was unveiled yesterday morning at the service in the Bristol Methodist Church. On the plaque are the names of 191 men and women affiliated either with the church or church school who were in the service of their country during World War II. Opposite eight of the names there are gold stars indicating that they have paid the supreme sacrifice.

Previous to the dedication service a service flag which hung in the church auditorium during the war, was lowered. The speaker of the morning was the Rev. Charles H. Weller, pastor of the church, who spoke appropriately for the occasion upon the subject "Have they fought in vain?"

A basso solo "Recessional" by Kipling was sung by James S. Douglass. Mrs. Frank Hampton, mother of Francis Hampton, who was killed in action, lowered the service flag. Jacob C. Schmidt, Jr., presented the plaque on behalf of the congregation to the trustees and the acceptance was by Howard Smoyer, president of the Board of Trustees.

The plaque is upon the real wall of the main church auditorium near the entrance.

HERE AND THERE IN BUCKS COUNTY TOWNS

Activities of Interest To All in The Various Communities

GLEANED BY SCRIBES

Articles of incorporation will be filed with the Department of State of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in Harrisburg on July 1 for a certificate of incorporation of the Bucks County Inn Inc.

The Bucks County Inn, now operating as a public licensed inn on North Main street opposite the Bucks County Administration Building, is the property involved.

Parties interested in the future plans of the property say that a definite announcement of the new set-up will be made within several weeks after final settlement is made for the property, which, it is said, will change ownership entirely.

It was learned that if the present plans are carried out in detail, the entire hotel property will be completely renovated from top to bottom, with many changes in the purpose and policy of the new hotel.

Believed to have been the victim of numerous attacks by dogs that killed many sheep, a large scarred buck deer made its appearance at various places in the Solebury section about the same time.

The buck is believed to be the same one that approached a Doylestown carpenter, who was working on a farm near Aquetong, and ate bait out of his hand after having put its head on the man's shoulder.

Mrs. C. V. Ely, of near Solebury Boys' School, said that a deer, whose injuries on his body were not completely healed, visited their home and ate food out of the hands of each member of the family.

The deer, which stayed around about an hour, had his skin later attacked by the wild dogs which were roaming about in the area killing sheep from time to time. The deer visited the Ely property some time in March.

ANARCHY BY VETO

Twice within the two-year span of the Truman Presidency the American nation has come to the threshold of anarchy.

The first time was when labor bosses, encouraged by the White House and goaded by inflation for which the White House also was responsible, loosed a wave of nation-wide strikes which the President declined to meet—as they could have been met—on the basis of existing laws.

Law enforcement broke down, on a nationwide basis.

If that isn't anarchy, what is?

If anyone doubts that then-existing laws could have smashed the steel, motor and other unwarranted and ruthless tie-ups, which struck so heavily at American industrial recovery, then let him remember that John L. Lewis' coal strike was broken by use of those same long-standing legal authorities.

The second time that the nation has been brought face to face with anarchy is within the past few days.

Two vetoes by President Truman, on matters of great urgency to the nation, laws Congress had studied carefully and at length, and which had been passed in that body by overwhelming majorities, have smashed the possibility of lawful and orderly administration of the nation's affairs under the governmental framework laid down by the Constitution.

Government as intended by the Constitution is no longer possible in this country. It will be virtually impossible so long as President Truman remains in the White House.

To be sure, the normal, everyday activities will continue—the mail will be delivered, the Federal payrolls will be met, and—oh, yes!—the tax collectors will be right on the job, skimming off 25 to 30 per cent of what every American earns.

But there is more to life than breathing; and there is more to government than such marking-time.

Government such as ours—call it a Republic or a Democracy as you wish—means the power of the American people to direct national policy.

It means their right to have new laws passed and enforced to meet new or changing conditions.

It was that right which was twice blocked, within the week, by a man the public had not elected to his present office, whose selection for the vice-presidency was the result of a slippery political deal rather than free electoral choice.

NAMED BENEFICIARY IN SCHEESE WILL

Katherine Scheese, Middletown Township, Inherits Estate of Michael Scheese

THE WALTON ESTATE

DOYLESTOWN, June 21.—Michael Scheese, Middletown township, who left a personal estate of $1,000 and real estate valued at $800, named Katherine Scheese the beneficiary, with the stipulation that at her death the house at Woodbourne would go to Bertha Scheese and the residue to the children, including Fred, Jacob, Henry, Frank and Anna. The testator, who died May 17, named Fred H. Scheese, 306 Station avenue, Langhorne, executor.

In a holographic will, which didn't cover a single sheet of stationery, Robert M. Walton, of Tinicum township, left a personal estate of $600. The widow, Mary R. Walton, is the beneficiary, and the will was written May 25, 1941. The Doylestown Trust Company was named the executor.

The widow, Pauline Spitz, Jamison, was named the heir of the $4,000 personal and $5,000 real estate, including 31 acres, of Howard Spitz, Buckingham township. The will was written July 15, 1915, and the testator died May 14.

JUNE PROVES A BUSY MONTH FOR CUPID

DOYLESTOWN, June 23.—Cupid is busier than ever, according to deputy clerk of Orphans' Court, Joseph B. Keating, of Bristol. Mr. Keating announces that 150 marriage license applications have been received so far this month.

Clerk of Orphans' Court, Mrs. Leonora H. Leattor, of Riegelsville, says that not only are there more young couples taking that trip to the altar since the war is over, "but this is the bride's month. We're swamped with applications."

If this month lives up to all expectations, it will be back to the pre-war days when as many as 293 licenses were granted in June, 1939. This month's total will probably exceed last June's record of 199 licenses.

Only 77 licenses were issued in June, 1944, 106 in June, 1942, and 86 in June, 1940. This indicates that Mrs. Leattor is probably right when she says that the end of the war brought forth the business in the Orphans' Court.

At the rate the license applications are pouring in now, the marriage bureau is averaging ten a day. If that keeps up, there will be more than 200 licenses granted this month.

Upper Darby Finishes Third In A Close Competition

LANGHORNE, June 23.—Six junior drum and bugle corps competed here Saturday afternoon, as well as individual members of the corps, for honors in field and in individual contests. There was an audience of an estimated 2000 seated upon the campus of the Langhorne-Middletown high school. The weather was ideal, a brilliant sun shining throughout the afternoon.

Judges were put on their toes in making their inspections as the slightest fault would have decided a winner or a loser in many instances, so close was the competition.

Two corps, other than the Soby Cadets, which were listed, did not compete in the field competition. These were Walter Gearty Post, No. 315, American Legion of Philadelphia, and Bracken Post Cadets, No. 352, American Legion of Bristol. The Gearty Cadets did enter into the individual events.

The corps made a striking picture as they paraded, drilled and maneuvered. The sun flashed upon their brilliantly-colored uniforms and the shining brass of their instruments while a good breeze waved the flags at just

To deny the right of the American people to share in the making of laws is intolerable.

For this right to be denied in the present circumstances is horrifying beyond description.

And for the vetoes to come, as these have done, in violation of series of explicit pledges by the President to "co-operate" with Congress, means, in simple English, that neither Congress nor the electorate will have any further reason to feel they can trust their President to keep his word.

If the President won't keep his word to Congress, and if Congress therefore can no longer attempt cooperative action with the White House; and if laws passed, as these were, by much more than the two-thirds vote which the Constitution implies should put them beyond veto, nevertheless are vetoed; and if attempts to override the veto are thereafter blocked by purely political means.

Then where does that leave the American people and their government?

It leaves the government bogged-down, stymied, blocked, inactive.

And it leaves the American people living under a form of anarchy, with all the hazards that condition implies.

There is no use arguing about the merits of the Labor Bill.
That's the least important part of the matter.

The American people elected Congress to pass the best law it could to meet an emergency situation—a situation the President himself had conceded to be an emergency, and which he had also asked Congress to remedy.

Assigned by the voters and the President to review and re-codify the labor laws, to prevent a recurrence of the crises of a year or so ago, Congress studied countless proposals, held long hearings, debated in detail every provision, reconciled the differences between the two Houses, and produced a bill which had the overwhelming support of both the House of Representatives and the Senate.

Broadly speaking, virtually all Republicans and about half of the Democrats in the National Congress gave the measure their support.

One man then put his own judgment ahead of that of the American people and the legislative branch of their government.
He was a man whom chance rather than ability or public choice had seated in his position of power.

He was a man of no personal experience with the problems either of labor or of management—whose sole industrial background consisted of running a haberdashery business into the ground during the biggest boom in American history.

The main objectors to the Labor bill were those whom the bill sought to control—the very labor bosses whom the President himself once spoke of as "a handful of men who have it within their power to cripple the entire economy of the Nation."

True, these men were able to drum up a noisy sham of protest, a fictitious picture of mass resistance. And they were able to "put the heat on" certain ambitious public figures, such as Mayor O'Dwyer in New York City and a little cluster of Senators and Representatives in Congress—and make these "leaders" dance when they pulled the strings.

But the fact remains that the persons who persuaded the President to veto the Labor Bill were simply the ones from whom, a year ago, he himself said the workers and the whole American people urgently needed protection.

Last year a Congress which was in the hands of the President's own political party passed the Case Bill to meet the situation which the President had described. He vetoed it.

Then the American public, at the November election, voted resoundingly that it had "had enough" and swept the Republicans into command of both Houses of Congress.

After six months of special studies, this new Congress passed the recent Labor Bill, strongly supported again by the President's own party members. Now it has been vetoed.

In the broader field, this is an anarchistic denial to the American people and their representatives in Congress of the legislative authority outlined in the Constitution.

In the narrowed political field, it is an outrageous political sell-out by the White House to a little band of labor barons who, regardless of what they may think they are doing, are rapidly driving this nation over the cliffs of Communism.

The national crisis is without parallel in our history.

It creates an emergency for which there is only one solution.
That solution is the verdict of the American voters at the national elections, a year from this November.

There is no greater issue in this country than Constitutional government.

That becomes the big issue of next year's campaign.

Under the new conditions resulting from his twin vetoes, President Truman's re-election at that time will be a "mandate" to finish scrapping the Constitution.

Where are YOU going to stand on that issue?

W. A. HARRIMAN

Secretary of Commerce Says:

Keep Turning In Your Used Fats

Used cooking fats have represented a substantial part of our total industrial fat supply. The more than 600 million pounds of used fats that American homemakers have saved and turned in since 1942 has been of vital importance. It is a record of which every woman who contributed may well be very proud.

The United States still lacks adequate supplies of fats and oils. And we are particularly short of industrial fats. Many, if not most, of the things we all use and wear require industrial fats, or the products of industrial fats, such as soaps and glycerine, in their manufacture.

So won't you keep up your good work and continue to save and turn in every, possible pound of used fat?

RESULTS OF GAMES DURING WEEK-END

St. Ann's A. A. won its 20th game of the season yesterday afternoon on the Maple Beach field, nailing out the Philadelphia Yanks, 5-4. Joe Berry pitched for the "Saints."

The Croydon "Vets" travelled to Palmyra and won a close 5-4 decision over the team representing the Jersey borough. Neil McCartney, Sal Pappatera and Stan Dick hurried for the Vets, with Dick winning his own game in the ninth with his second hit of the tilt. Pappatera hit a home run with two on base in the first inning.

Friday evening the Croydon team was beaten by the VFW 389, Frankford, on Leedom's field. The score was 5 to 3.

West Bristol, and Killian C. C., of Eddington, split a double-bill. Killian won the first tilt, 3 to 2, while West Bristol captured the second game, 8 to 7.

The West Bristol boys came from behind to win the night-cap. They were trailing, 6-1, until the fifth, when they scored six runs on doubles by Dave Weakley, Harry Rhodes and George Biggie, and singles by Saul and Ned Haines, in addition to a pass to John Ritter.

Wedded at Ceremony In Philadelphia Church

In St. Veronica's Church, Philadelphia, at 11 o'clock Saturday morning, Miss Bernadine Ann Coyle, daughter of Mr. James P. Coyle and Mrs. Walter J. Scott, former residents for many years in Edgely, was united in marriage to Mr. James Dennis Dougherty, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Dougherty, Mt. Airy.

To the strains of "Ave Maria" and "Nearer My God to Thee" the bride and groom were given in marriage by her father.

The bride was attired in a white crepe gown with a lace collar, long sleeves and a long train. She carried a bouquet of white roses and gardenias and wore white satin slippers.

Miss Julia Palowicz, Edgely, was maid of honor and wore a form-fitting pink marquisette floor-length gown. The groom had a hasty back and cape collar falling over the shoulders forming sleeves and she wore long lace mittens.

Miss Marie Noll, Philadelphia, wore blue gown. Miss Violet Walters, Philadelphia, wore lavender, and Miss Katherine Dougherty, sister of the groom, wore yellow.

The bridesmaids were all attired in gowns similar to the maid of honor, all carrying bouquets of mixed flowers and wearing large neutral leghorn hats with black velvet streamers. Slippers were of white.

The best man was Mr. John McGowan, Long Island, N.Y., and ushers were Joseph Feeley, brother-in-law of the groom, Philadelphia; Joseph Coyle, brother of the bride, Ft. Monroe, Virginia; and Joseph Dougherty, brother of the groom, Philadelphia.

Mrs. Dougherty, mother of the groom, selected for the ceremony a black print silk dress and wore a corsage of roses.

Mrs. Scott, aunt of the bride was attired in a grey crepe dress having a draped effect with cape sleeves and wore an arm corsage of red roses.

Following the ceremony a communion breakfast for the immediate families and bridal party was held in a Philadelphia restaurant, with a reception at the Liedertafel Hall in the evening with approximately 250 persons attending.

Mr. and Mrs. James Dougherty left for a week's honeymoon in the Catskill Mountains and upon their return will reside with the groom's parents in Mt. Airy.

The former Mrs. Dougherty is a graduate of Bristol high school and was employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

Gifts of compacts were presented to her attendants by the bride with the groom presenting gifts of the pins, belts and chain sets to the best man and ushers.

Wedding Culminates Romance Which Had Beginning in Japan

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, June 23. — A romance that began in Japan when an army nurse and a lieutenant in the army were stationed there, culminated in their marriage at 11 o'clock mass in St. Charles R. C. Church on Saturday. With her uncle, the Rev. Fr. James L. McCabe, Jamaica, N. Y., officiating, Miss Lillian T. Grant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Grant, Cornwells Manor, became the bride of Mr. Joseph H. Hughes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hughes, Bethlehem.

The bride was attired in a gown of white tulle and tulle and tulle lace, fashioned after princess lines with a train, sweetheart neckline and long pointed sleeves. A coronet headpiece with fingertip veil, white slippers, and a necklace of pearls from Japan were worn. A white prayer book, covered with a shower of white rosebuds was carried by the bride.

Miss Dorothy Dickson, Benton Harbor, Mich., who served with Miss Grant overseas, was the maid of honor. She wore a gown of pastel blue tulle with oval neck and square shoulderline, cap sleeves, long skirt, matching long, blue, fingerless gloves, a string of pearls, and white slippers were worn. Pink roses were worn in her hair, and she carried a bouquet of pink roses.

The flower girl, Carole Lawless, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Lawless, Cornwells Manor, wore a dress of pink tulle, fashioned with a square neckline, short sleeves, wide sash, long hoop skirt with ruffled edge and white slippers. She wore white flowers in her hair and carried a basket of mixed white flowers.

Mr. Harry Grant gave his daughter in marriage. Mr. John Grant, brother of the bride, served as best man. The ushers were Messrs. Robert Grant, brother of the bride, and William Hughes, brother of the groom. The men were attired in black tuxedos and white coats.

Mrs. Grant, mother of the bride, selected a dress of gray-blue, eyelet embroidery, white hat and accessories. Mrs. Hughes, mother of the groom, chose a navy blue crepe dress, navy blue hat and accessories. Both wore corsages of pink roses.

A wedding breakfast was served to members of the families at Poquessing Country Club, Philadelphia. A reception took place at the home of the bride's parents in the evening, 150 attending.

For her wedding trip to the Pocono Mountains, the former Miss Grant selected a gray flannel suit, white hat and accessories. The newly-weds will reside in Bethlehem.

Today's Quiet Moment

By the Rev. Charles H. Weller, Pastor
Bristol Methodist Church

Our Father, grant to us in this new week that has begun, a new awareness of thy presence. As we go about the trivial round and do the common tasks help us to remember that Jesus lived the common things and engaged in honest toil. By thy grace and help may we be spiritually strong to endure the hardships and disappointments without complaint and to help others in the bearing of their burdens. With humble and reverent spirit we ask these gifts, in the name of thy Son, Amen.

STUDENT DESIGNERS

AKRON, O. (INS)—Akron University has gone one step farther in turning out expert aeronautical designers. Not only must students in airplane design class be able to draw up plans for airplanes, but now they must also build scale models of those plans. If the models don't fly in the backyard of the Guggenheim Institute where classes are held, the student stands a good chance of failing the course.
